Criminal Irish Drunkards: The Inebriate Reform System 1900-1920 Conor Reidy

This book examines the Inebriate Reformatory system in Ireland from its foundation in 1900 until its closure in 1920 and the three institutions charged with punishing or rehabilitating habitual drunkards: the State Inebriate Reformatory, the Certified Inebriate Reformatory and the Voluntary Inebriate Retreat. This book offers a unique insight into the habitual inebriate offender class in Ireland. Using registers of inmates, annual records, court cases and institutional records it presents a stark account of the ways in which alcohol addiction combined with lack of opportunity to condemn countless Irish victims to lives of poverty and misery in the early twentieth century. It looks at the ways in which institutional staff sought to exact reform over the inmates through education, training, religion and discipline.
